If He Got Higher Pay Maybe His Chance of Getting in Would Be Better-His Lawyer to Fight the Case in Court if the Deportation Order Holds.

Immigration Commissioner Williams received yesterday the decision of Secretary of the Treasury Shaw, who has ordered that Sotirios S. Lontos Charalambis, the pentalinguist representative of the Greek Current Company who came here to establish a branch of that concern, must be Charalambis made the mistake of being too honest, as he mournfully said yesterday, by declaring when he took passage on the other side that he was an expert accountant and that he was to receive a fixed salary of $1,000 a year in this country. There are lots of expert accountants who get as much as $1,000 a year, Secretary Shaw says, and therefore Charalambis is not a skilled laborer within the meaning of the law. This is the Secretary's decision:

the Secretary's decision:

I have investigated the case of the alien Sotirios Lontos and can reach but one conclusion. His own testimony establishes the following facts:

First—He is an expert accountant, his own language being "act as chief accountant in this currant company."

Second—He is under contract to perform service as chief accountant.

Third—The value of his services is $1,000 a year.

Third—The value of his services is $1,000 a year.

The exceptions under which aliens may be admitted refer to "skilled labor, if labor of like kind unemployed cannot be found in this country." Accountants worth $1,000 a year can be found in this country. Professional actors, artists, lecturers, singers, ministers of any religious denomination, professors for colleges or seminaries, persona belonging to any recognized learned profession or persons employed strictly as personal or domestic servants may also be admitted.

I do not see how it can be claimed that this party comes within the excepted distinction. From all that appears in the pupers he is an accountant, earning $1,000 a year, and as such, I think, is clearly inadmissible. This does not, of course, cover the question of a man coming here to take charge of a great enterprise. The salary at which he is employed precludes the possibility of his being necessary to the success of any business concern.

If Charalambis had jumped his salary a few

If Charalambis had jumped his salary a few figures to impress the immigration officials he probably would have been passed without question.

"The decision astonishes me," said Lawver Hayes of 49 Wall street, who has been fighting to save Charalambis from deportation. "Why is my client not indispensable to the Greek Currant Company? The concern wants some one here who knows the business and a man it has confidence in. As to the size of the enterprise, the Greek Currant Company was the pioneer of the business and is one of the largest, if not the largest,

Lawyer Hayes intends to seek another sudience with Commissioner Williams. If he cannot do anything with the Commissioner he will seek a writ of habeas corpus from Judge Lacombe and fight the matter out in the courts.

Meanwhile Charalambis is on parole and is paying his own expenses. He says there are no Greeks in America who understand the currant business thoroughly and that a man with a thorough knowledge of the business would get better prices and better currants for Americans.

Charalambis brought his violin with him. He says he is qualified to play in any orchestra.

"I made a mistake," he said, "in not saying I was a musician. Then I would have been let in. But I told the bare truth, without going into details, and now you don't want me."

D. N. Botassi, the Greek Consul in this

don't want me."

D. N. Botassi, the Greek Consul in this city, who has written several letters to the State Department in Charalambis's behalf, made this comment on the decision

"If he had said he was coming over here for amusement or to win an American girl he wouldn't have been troubled."

Mr. Botassi has asked the State Department for advice as to how the Greek Currant Company can send a representative to this country.

AN OPEN AIR DOG PARTY. Opening of the Ladies' Kennel Association

Summer Show.

Many fine dogs were on view yesterday at the summer show of the Ladies' Kennel As-sociation of America, held under canvas on the grounds of James L. Kernochan, the Meadows, near Hempstead. There was a large attendance from the country houses of Hempstend, Westbury, Wheatley Hills and the North Shore, while many more came to Hempstead by train and drove out to the Meadows. It was a very sociable and jolly sort of show, the owners of the winners and osers in the different classes having to, withstand much good-natured chaffing from their riends, but the judging was quite as strict and some of the classes as hotly contested as at a big winter show. Over 790 dogs were benched and the arrangements proved the committee had worked energetically to make the first summer show a success.

The committee-Mrs. James I. Kernochan. The committee—Mrs. James I. Kernochan, president of the association: Mrs. D. W. Evans and Miss L. Alger—were present, as a matter of course, and among others of the members who received (the society term is fitting) were Mrs. Juck" Brazier, Miss Lillian C. Moeran, Mrs. W. W. Hadley, Mrs. Knowles, Miss C. Cameron, Mrs. R. F. Mayhew, Mrs. Sidney Dillon Ripley, Miss Louise Grace, Miss May Bird, Mrs. D. T. Pulsifer, Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, the Misses De Coppet, Mrs. Thomas Hitchcock, Jr., Mrs. J. E. Smith Hadden and Mrs. F. F. Dole.

The bulk of the judging devolved on James Mortimer, who made good progress in his many heavy classes. In rough-coaled St. Bernards he awarded the winner's ribbon for dogs to Louis Walther's well-known champion Sir Waldorf, and for bitches to Miss A. A. Mark's Aunt Sarah, while the Newton Abbot Kennel's Abbot Squire and the same kennel's champion Dolly Varden, carried off similar honors in the smooth variety. In English setters, Mr Mortimer awarded the winners' ribbon for dogs to the superbly coated Uiverstone Hap, owned by the Boomfield Kennels, and for the bitches to the same owners' champion Madeap, Irish setters were not so numerous, the respective ribbons in the winners' classes being to Charles H. Snodgrass's Bess's Teddy and Ditches, to Charles J. Reynolds's Alexing Ditches, to Charles J. Reynolds' Alexing Hampion Had Bost Lindon B. F. Lewis's champion fied Boss I and Ditches, to Charles J. Cricket.

The cricket team of the steamship Minnetonka played an eleven of the New Jersey C. C. yesterday at Livingston, where the sailors received a severe drubbing by no less than an innings and 85 runs after their opponents had declared their innings closed with only three wickets down.

The occasion was made memorable by a "century" by R. E. Bonner, who hit out in his "century" by R. E. Boliner, who hit out in his usually vigorous style for 102, not out. R. St. G. Walker also did fine work with the bat and put on 55 before he retired. S. E. G. Cook bowled in effective style for the winners and captured 7 wickets for 12 runs in the sailors first attempt at the bat. The totals of the game were: New Jersey C. C., 164 (de-clared for three wickets); S. S. Minnetonka, 35 and 48.

of the game were: New Jersey C. C., 184 (declared for three wickets); S. S. Minnetonka, 35 and 44.

Local cricketers will have a busy time to-day, for an extensive programme of games has been arranged for the holiday. Among an attractive list of matches the game which will be played between Essex County and Columbia Oval at Branch Brook Park, Newark, will be of peculiar interest. These teams wound up the season last year tied for the championship of the New York Cricket Association, and the match to-day has been arranged as a deciding contest for the pennant of 1902.

The Manhattan Club will play its opening game in the championship series of the Metropolitan District Cricket League at Prospect Park with Kings County, the Brooklyn Club will visit Staten Island for a game with the Livingston Field Club, the Thistles and West Indians will meet at Prospect Park, Newark will entertain Manhattan second eleven at Branch Brook Park and the New Jersey C. FINAL GOLF AT DEAL BEACH.

DOUGLAS AND MOLLER LEFT IN FOR THE CHAMPIONSHIP.

conditions favored good play at the Deal Golf Club yesterday and the contests in the two rounds brought out the best of golfing. There was a great "gallery" out to watch the semi-finalists, and, with the players in the four-ball match, the links was a scene of life and motion. The outcome of the first match to drive off in the semi-final was regarded as most uncertain, the con-testants being Findlay Douglas and Allan Kennaday. The latter best Douglas in the M. G. A. championship of 1900, and, as he has since won the New Jersey State cham-pionship twice, many predicted that he would pionship twice, many predicted that he would again beat the Nassau County representative. The result, however, favored Douglas by 7 and 6, but Kennaday played better golf than the score would indicate and the match was replete with good features.

They halved the first hole in a par 4. Douglas won the second in 5 to 6, Kennaday twice driving out of bounds, and then gaining the 469 yard green in 2 and holing for a 4, a brilliant bit of play, although too late for service. On the third Kennaday again sliced out of bounds, Douglas winning in 5 to 6. Playing the third Douglas was in the road, 246 yards from the tee on the drive and Kennaday a few feet short of it. He sliced his second into the hedge, however, which made the hole an 8, while Douglas, with a cleek and a midiron, reached the 533-yard green and made a par 5. Douglas made his lead 4 up by taking the fifth, in 5 to 6. Both used cleeks for the 192-yard sixth, Kennaday carrying the green and getting a 3, but Douglas was short and needed 4. Both were in trouble on their seconds, playing the long and vexing seventh hole, but Douglas made the better recovery and won in 7 to 8. They halved the next two, leaving Douglas in the comfortable lend of 4 at the turn.

Coming home Pouglas made beautiful work, getting the par of 4, 4, 5, while Kennaday was wild on his long game, possibly through trying to do too much, and recorded 6, 5, 6. The card:

The final for each event to-day will be at thirty-six holes, and there will also be a thirty-six-hole medal play handicap, the annual test of the M. G. A. general ratings.

An extra feature was the Metropolitan Association's yearly four-ball four-some, for pairs for the same club, at eighteen holes scratch medal play. It was the fifth renewal, the record standing:

Plenty of excitement was furnished in the 200-yard relay race between teams composed of four girls, each competitor racing seventy-five yards. Until the last relay not two yards separated any of the runners. On the last relay Miss Gertrude Giffin ran for Montclair against Miss Lena Lindo of the De Mills School. For the first fifty yards neither of the girls had an advantage, but at the last twenty-five yards, Miss Giffin got a lead of about five yards, which she held until the finish.

The pace was slow to the quarter-mile pole, but the second quarter was trotted in 33 seconds. Edgewood was on the outside, and Maloney was half a length behind around the second turn, waiting for the brush in the homestretch. George C. Cannon, the Harvard student who made the record of 1 minute 5 1-5 seconds with a steam automobile of his own making at the Brighton Beach track last year, has built a new steam machine with which to race at the Readville (Mass.) track to-day. On Thursday he went out with the new car on a trial spin on the track there and covered a mile in 1 minute 32-5 seconds, which suggests the possibility of his breaking to-day the world's track record of 1 minute 2½ seconds, now held by Alexander Winton.
